TALENTED SOFTWARE DEVELOPER NEEDED TO HELP KILL THE HOME PRINTER

We are looking for a new member for our development team to help us create the coolest cloud-based printing solution in the world.

About you
You are a talented software developer with a strong ability for abstract thinking and a passion for clean, high quality code. In your opinion, anyone can learn to build software, but the real challenges (and rewards) lie in doing it right while protecting and continuously improving the quality and integrity of the overall system. You understand the value of using the right tools to solve a problem. You strive to be among the best within your field and consider any task and challenge an opportunity to improve and refine your skills to meet that ambition.

You envision elegant, effective solutions and enjoy the journey towards them as much as the final result. You also enjoy working in a team where different minds join forces to create solutions that could not be achieved by a single individual. Therefore, you show trust and respect for people with different opinions and skills whilst not holding back your own views and ideas.

Your role at Princh
You work in collaboration with our software architect and the rest of the development team to extend our cloud-based printing platform. You take great responsibility for further development of our backend (microservices-based architecture), but you contribute across the software ecosystem as well.

From us to you
We offer you a unique chance to learn firsthand what it's like to develop and grow a software company. Expect to join an informal and pleasant working environment with great conditions for growing as a person and a professional. You will be challenged and supported in continuously enhancing your skills and toolbox. There is plenty of room for you to grow your responsibility and impact.

Our software
Princh allows users on any device to print any kind of document on printers connected to our cloud and pay electronically for the service. Princh is quick, simple and intuitive to use and easy for printer owners to set up. Princh is the leading solution in Scandinavia and we have a rapidly growing customer base across the UK and the US.

The team
You will be part of a small team of brilliant, passionate people with different backgrounds and nationalities all dedicated to making Princh the global standard for printing in the public space. We have fun while getting s!!t done - together.

Location
You will be based in our main office in Aarhus. However, for the right candidate there's an opportunity to work from our satellite office in Copenhagen during most of the week.

Process
We're looking for just the right person with the right skillset and personality and will be reviewing applications continuously.
Send your application, CV and preferably also links to repositories of previous work to our CTO, Hans (hans@princh.com) as soon as possible. If you have any questions about the position, our team or mission, feel free to contact Hans by phone: +45 61 39 67 39.

We look forward to hearing from you!